

Sweetmama Top 5 Sample

Early eavesdropping

Whether you're the mildly fretful or full-on anxious type, there is a baby monitor designed for you.

Summer Day and Night Colour Flat Screen Video Monitor

With a 7" LCD flat screen and swivel and tilt options to accommodate multiple angles, you'd best ask baby if she's ready for her close-up before you turn this one on.

Summer Day and Night Color Flat Screen Video Monitor

Safety 1st Angelcare Movement and Sound Monitor

This monitor not only picks up all of baby's squeaks and grunts, its sensor pad sounds an alarm if no movement is detected for 20 seconds. Peace of mind or TMI? Your call.

Safety 1st Angelcare Movement and Sound Monitor

Philips Avent Baby Monitor

Soothe those cries before they reach a fevered pitch with features like a two-way communication system, on-board lullabies and a nightlight. No, it doesn't change diapers. (We checked.)

Philips Avent Baby Monitor

Fisher-Price Private Connection Monitor

The Darth Vader-like sounds of baby's breathing wafting through the monitor are not always the ambience you're going for. Set the sound low and "see" your baby's sounds with this monitor that features LED light display.

Fisher-Price Private Connection Monitor

Graco Imonitor 'Vibe' Dual-Receiver Digital Baby Monitor

For those blessed with bigger houses, having two docking stations is critical. A digital signal of up to 2,000 feet also means we can wander our estate without missing a coo.

Graco Imonitor 'Vibe' Dual-Receiver Digital Baby Monitor